We are excited to announce a public demonstration of Nainoa Thompson's Hawaiian Star Compass on Monday, February 10, at Kapi'olani Community College based on the ingenious, ancestral methodology introduced to Hawai'i by Master Navigator Mau Piaiug of Micronesia.

The Star Compass is a part of Kapi'olani CC's campus and provides an opportunity to understand the principles of celestial navigation, ocean currents, winds, and traditional Hawaiian voyaging culture by linking modern education with ancient practices, environmental stewardship, and mālama 'āina (caring for the land).
